W. P. WALTON.

Maria Ward and John Randolph.

One of the saddest and most romantic love affairs in the social annals of Virginia was that of Maria Ward and John Randolph, of Roskohe. Beginning in his early boyhood, it became the one entrancing passion of his manhood, filling his whole being, until, he himself said, "he loved her better than his own soul or him that created it." There is a picture of John Randolph in the rooms of the Virginia Historical Society, taken at the time when he was the accepted lover of Maria Ward. It represents a singularly handsome youth of twenty-five, his eyes dark and full of intellect, his mouth beautifully formed, and over his proud and lofty forehead fell a profusion of dark hair. The breaking off of the affair is wrapped in mystery; all we know is that one summer morning he rode up to the house, and after a long interview in the parlor, the lady left the room in tears, while he rushed from the house, mounted his horse and rode furiously away. He never saw her again; but one day he approached a house where she was staying while she was singing in the parlor. Fascinated by the sound of her voice he lingered on the porch, and sent in from time to time a request for her to sing one after another the tender little ballads which were associated with their loves. Maria Ward sang, unconscious of her lover's presence, while he rushed frantically up and down the porch in an agony of grief, waving his arms, and crying in the anguish of his heart: "Macbeth hath married sleep; Macbeth shall sleep no more!"

Maria Ward married Peyton Randolph, son of Edmund Randolph, who was Governor of Virginia, the first Attorney General of the United States, and Secretary of State under Washington. This lady was distinguished for the exquisite grace and fascination of her manner and her bright wit. Her portrait, a copy of which has been secured for this article through the courtesy of her granddaughter, Mrs. Williams, of Richmond, represents a lovely girl of sixteen, with wondrous blue eyes, exquisitely delicate complexion, a profusion of sunny brown curls, and in the quaint costume of the last century.

Maria Ward died in 1826, aged forty-two years. All contemporary accounts unite in describing her as possessing a singular fascination of manners, a charming sweetness and amiability of disposition, an enchanting gaiety and spirit, and a peculiar, irresistible, personal loveliness. At the time of her death she was still as fresh as the summer rose, as sparkling in mind and manners as when she enthralled the passionate heart of John Randolph, of Roskohe. (E. L. Dillard, in Harper's Magazine for April.)

Fish Cook having been called upon to become a candidate for the Legislature in Warren county, declines in an amusing card in which he says: "So, good people, let me off this time and I promise you I will raise grapes for you; I will teach you to raise melons and will divide my patch with you; I will tell you all I have learned about farming and fruit-growing—will tell you how to cure hog cholera and kill cabbage worms—will make you a speech on 'free trade and the people's rights'—will tell you a new yarn and crack you an old joke and sing you a song, when I learn one—and will be a candidate for the Senate two years hence, if we are all alive and it is agreeable all around; but let me off this time and I will stay at home and let the bees sting me. Good friends, you can run me for anything—even through a briar patch or horse pond, but not for the Legislature." He concludes as follows: "I wrote this with my own hand, with my heart full, a big tear in my left eye, and it snowing like blazes out of doors."

A MODEL COOK.—Mrs. Richard Cobb, Jr., of Lincoln county, nee Phelps, of this county, visited relatives here some weeks ago. She was in need of a cook and found one in Union City, whom she took home with her. The other day a fine Newfoundland dog of which Mr. Cobb thought much, entered the kitchen and took therefrom a piece of meat, carried it into the yard and was engaged in devouring it when the cook made the discovery. The information was imparted to Mrs. C., when she carelessly remarked "Mr. C. I wish your old dog was dead." In a few moments thereafter the cook appeared in the door and said: "He's dead." "Who's dead?" was asked. "The dog—you said you wished he was dead," Mr. Cobb said the ax and killed him." Mr. Cobb has been wearing mourning ever since. (Richmond Herald.)

Infants born on unlucky days among certain tribes of Madagascar have pieces of cloth tied over their mouths and are then buried alive.

The Druggists, who are always looking after the interest of their customers, have now secured the sale of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup, a remedy that never fails to cure Coughs, Pains in the chest, and all Lung Affections. For proof Coughs, try a free sample bottle. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

The Streets and Sidewalks of Venice.

The streets and sidewalks of Venice are decidedly unique, both in material and construction. The city is built entirely upon piles, and occupies 82 small islands in the lagoon of Venice. One hundred and fifty canals serve as streets for the city, these being crossed by nearly 400 bridges. The Canalazzo, or Grand Canal, has a varying breadth of from 100 to 180 feet, and divides the city, by a devious line, into nearly two equal parts. Both sides of this canal are lined with buildings, many of them marble palaces of great magnificence, and so close to the water's edge as to be entered from the gondolas or water coaches plying in all directions. The canal is spanned by three bridges, two iron structures erected in 1854 and 1858, and the Rialto bridge, built of white marble in 1588-91. The canals branching off from the Canalazzo and from each other are much narrower and shorter. The numerous bridges are very steep in the centre to afford passage for the gondolas beneath them, and render a land circuit of Venice a most fatiguing task. Most of the houses, in addition to their main entrance by water, have another communicating with a narrow alley or court on the land. These passage-ways are so narrow and intricate as to render the city a vast labyrinth, most of them being not more than four feet in width. There are two exceptions to these. The first is the street called the Merceria, situated near the centre of the city, lined with handsome shops and so wide that two carriages might pass in it if their drivers were very careful. The other is the Piazza of St. Mark, on the south side of the city, at the entrance of the Grand Canal, a square containing some of the finest public buildings of the city, and lined by arcades with handsome shops and cafes. At right angles to this is the Piazzetta, which runs down to the sea. Many streets are lined with narrow quays, having stairways down to the gondola landings. The city has railway communication with a junction on the main land by means of a viaduct two miles long, with over 200 arches. The city of Venice is very beautiful, from a distance presents a very picturesque appearance, the houses all seeming to be silhouetted on the water. A company has been formed to substitute steamers for the gondolas of Venice. This will rob the city of a great element of attractiveness as well as poetic association, but will no doubt prove of great commercial importance. (Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

There were audited on March 11 and paid out of the State Treasury idiot claims to the amount of eleven hundred and ninety-one dollars and twenty-five cents, (1,191.25) all from one county. This was the semi-annual allowance for the support of thirty-four idiots. Among this lot were seven new ones. At this rate how long will it be before the idiots are in a majority in that county? And may not this be a key to the systematic robbery of the Treasury, of which the readers of the Commercial have of late heard so much? Will the next Legislature have the nerve to repeal the law under which such outrages are perpetrated, and relegate to the counties the care of the few of this class of poor unfortunates who are really objects of charity. Repeal the idiot law and stop the fraud. (Yeoman.)

North Georgia marble is claimed to be the finest in the world. A local quarryman has just cut a counter for the Kimball House, Atlanta, sixteen feet in length and four feet broad out of one solid block. He says: "We could supply a flawless marble column eight feet long and five feet in diameter. A hundred years from today the quarry will have been barely touched. The supply of marble of surpassing quality and of every shade of color is inexhaustible."

When I was at Washington I said to the engineer of the little building at the foot of the Monument.

"You have a mighty tall chimney for such a small factory."

He silently chalked a mark on a board wall behind him.

"What's that for?" I inquired.

"You are the 167th person who made that remark" was the answer. (Detroit Free Press.)

The wood parts of roller skates are made of box-wood, the same as that used in making wood engravings. Box-wood was never very plenty, and the roller-skate craze has sent its price away up out of reach of the wood engravers, who are groaning and wishing the crazy would abate or some one would discover a substitute for box wood. Their business is seriously affected.

"You did not dare speak to me in that manner before I married you, sir!" she indignantly exclaimed.

"No, nor you didn't dare come crawling around me in curl papers and ragged slippers before I married you, mmm!" he retorted.

Then she cried and he profaned.

—There will be an abundant crop of apples and peaches this year, at least that is what many of our farmer friends inform us. A backward-looking is always a sign of a good fruit year. (Winchester Democrat.)

JUST AS GOOD.

Many unscrupulous dealers may tell you they have remedies for Coughs and Colds equal in merit and in every respect just as good as the old reliable Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup, unless you insist upon this remedy and will take no other, you are liable to be grossly deceived. Prices, 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

THE CLOSING CHAPTER.

BY ALBERT H. PAINE.

Good-bye! and though our hearts shall never
Meet in union again,
Mine will yearn for thine forever,
Though it hangs all in vain.

Good-bye! and though our hands no more
Shall clasp, unless beyond the tomb,
Mine still would serve thee as before,
If ever time of need should come.

Good-bye! and though these eyes and thine
No more in tender glances meet,
To know this pleasure once was mine,
Will be a joy forever sweet.

Good-bye! and though our lips apart
Must ever and forever be,
Mine still obey the aching heart,
And sadly breathe this song to thee.

Good-bye! and should you sometimes cast
A wistful look on vanished dreams,
Remember always that the past
The farther off the fairer seems.

But though the words I speak are truth,
In them I can no solace find,
I cannot leave the dreams of youth
Without a lingering look behind.

And shall your heart regretfully
For other days and pleasures sigh,
However dear they seem to be
You cannot prize them more than I.

In tearful sorrow I repine,
And sadly curse my bitter fate.
The fault was mine, the grief is mine,
And I repent, alas, too late.

Too late, and every hope is gone,
For we will never meet again,
And as the days drag slowly on,
I dream of what they might have been.

In the Legislature: "Mr. Speaker, I arise to place in nomination a man, sir, what we all know, sir, to be a man what ain't got no peer nowhar. We all know that he is more than qualified, sir, for the position, for I served with him durin' the war, sir; he will not only represent the great democratic party, but, sir, the entire State. Durin' the dark and bloody days when the pale face of hunger put its bloody hand on the heart of the nation he was found to be as true as steel, and grabbed the gory wolf by the lappels of his shirt and shook him until he loudly begged for mercy." (Arkansas Traveler.)

Dr. William A. Kiddack, who died recently in Pennsylvania, had during the last years of his life been made miserable by the delusion that thirteen women were after him with matrimonial intentions. One of them, he said, wanted him to marry her and feed her on peacock's brains and diamonds. The doctor once thought of purchasing a large farm and stocking it with his baker's dozen of admirers. One of his latest vagaries was to put on his clothes in an eccentric fashion, sticking his arms in the legs of his trousers, and wearing his socks on his hands.

Generals Beauregard and Early persist in disgracing themselves, the soldiers of the late war that fought under them and the memory of those who gave their lives to make the reputations of those Generals all they are. It would be far better for them to live and die in poverty than to grow rich at the expense of their section of country's honor. This is the opinion of the majority of the people of the South, as the editor of this paper ascertained on a recent visit to the States of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana. (Agent's Herald.)

A Boston gentleman, who has a taste for the collection of old epitaphs, sends us the following quaint specimen of an epitaph on a tombstone in a graveyard in Plymouth county, Mass.: Here lies the bones of Richard Layton, Whose death, alas was strangely brought on, Trying his corns one day to mow off, His razor slipped and cut his toe off. His toe, or rather what it grew to, An inflammation quickly flew to, Which took, alas, to mortifying, And was the cause of Richard's dying.

Old Daniel Tucker, colored, the most notable character on Chincoteague Island, died last week. He claimed to have had many hair breadth escapes by field and flood. He also claimed to be the man that "the song was writ about," and maintained that he had drunk enough whiskey to float any vessel that ever traded over Chincoteague Bay. (Baltimore Sun.)

"Buckle my shoe, Egbert, dear," said a Chicago belle to her near-sighted fiancé. Egbert went down on his knees like a true knight, but as he had lost his eyesight, his vision was a little uncertain.

"Is this your foot, darling?" he inquired.

"You bet," she said.

"Aw, pawdno! I—I thought it was the lounge!"

Egbert is now disengaged.

John Swinton objects in his paper to Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet because, with one exception—that of Mr. Manning—it is composed of lawyers. Judging from the kind of work that the heads of the Departments will be compelled to carry on for a year or two, a Cabinet composed exclusively of criminal lawyers would not be altogether out of place.

It is said that some of the States are affronted because they are not represented in the Cabinet. Ah, well, all in due time. Every militia district in the country will have an opportunity to be represented in the Cabinet long before the democratic party concludes to relinquish its firm hold on the Government. (Atlanta Constitution.)

Military red tape required the appointment of a Major, a Captain and a First Lieutenant as a board to condemn a sick mule to be shot to death at Omaha. The mule died during the session of the gallant board. (Chicago Times.)

Time to Put in Her Teeth.

It is told of an old farmer down in Georgia, who put his new wife on the train for a visit to "his folks;" whom she had never seen, that he put her in charge of the conductor, with the special request that the lady be told when she got to Ward's Station.

The conductor was interrogated frequently and often as to whether the train was near Ward's Station; the negative reply was given many times. At each station he was nervously questioned, "Is this Ward's?" "No, madam; I will tell you when we get there." But he didn't. The train approached Ward's Station, ran by five miles with not a thought of the farmer's wife. The bell-rord was pulled vigorously when the mistake was discovered, the signal given and the train backed up to Ward's. The conductor ran into the ladies' car:

"Now, madam, this is Ward's; come let me help you off, the train is behind time."

"But I am not going to get off at Ward's; my husband told me when I got to Ward's I'd be pretty near Guthbert and it would be time to put in my teeth. Much obliged for tellin' me."

Whereupon she proceeded to put them in. (Ex.)

The trade-dollar speculators are in the short row. Bankers and brokers who bought trade dollars at 85 cents with the expectation that Congress would order their redemption at face value are now selling them to the mint at 84 cents. Some instances are given: A Philadelphia banking house has sent 10,000 to the mint and several thousand more on hand, which will take the same course. A New York banking house has 60,000 which will be sent to the mint to be melted. It may be hoped this is the end of the swindling trade dollar. (Commonwealth.)

A country that can show an aggregate value in farm animals of $2,456,425,983 is a long ways from bankruptcy. And this is the return of horses, mules, milch cows, oxen, and other cattle, sheep and swine, for the United States for one year. As compared with the previous year there was an increase in all the farm animals except sheep and swine, the depreciation in those classes being attributed to the change in the wool tariff and the low price of corn.

"So I may really have the next wife?" said a H-dude to a married belle the other night. "It's so good of you, Mrs. M. I know how rarely you'd consent to walk with anybody. I am greatly favored." "Not at all, Mr. Luddah, I don't object to walking, in general; it is only my husband's absurd jealousy, you know. "But I'm sure he won't mind my taking a turn with you, you know."

A hotel is to be built in Pittsburgh, Penn., seven stories high, with the kitchen on the top floor, and electric fire escapes in every room. The escape is to be operated from the office. By touching a button there every guest is simultaneously aroused, every window thrown open, and a flexible ladder loosened that reaches to the ground.

"How do you sell teeth?" inquired a man, stepping into the office of a Chicago dentist.

"Ten dollars a set."

"Well, you may give me fifty cents worth; I've got to get the old lady something for a present, and she needs teeth the worst of anything I know of." (Chicago Telegram.)

George Riddle, of Carroll county, Mo., is the father of twenty-two daughters—among them five sets of twins—all living and at home, and has 400 acres of land for each one. So they are likely to stay at home long after reaching marriageable age.

The next time K-nucky wants anything it will do well to bear in mind that it does not always pay to get all four feet into the trough. (Chicago Herald.)

W. P. WALTON.

BRO KELLER, of the Carlisle Mercury, can not possess his soul in patience, so anxious is he that every bloody son of a republican be turned out of office. After copying an article from this paper published the day before the inauguration, in which we exulted over the coming of tomorrow, he says: "It looks like it will be tomorrow sure enough. Secretary Bayard, whose family has been fed for sixty years by democratic support, has notified his republican subordinates that he does not intend to disturb them. The democratic administration does not seem to recognize its friends." We are as desirous as anybody to see a majority of the republicans turned out to die, but we recognize the good sense of Mr. Cleveland in going slow in the matter of appointments, and are confident that in good time he will fill every office that should be with honest democrats. In the mean time the discomfiture of the impatient office-seekers is as amusing as their claims are doubtful and magnified.

THE Louisville Times takes us to task for our little paragraph in regard to the Board of Equalization and says: "The law should be given a fair test—something it has not yet had—before it is condemned. In Illinois, where exactly the same law prevails, the Haggard bill being a close copy, the Board of Equalization gives general satisfaction. A peculiarity of the law is that, with each recurring year, its operation becomes less burdensome to taxpayers and assessments are sensibly regulated and equalized. The Times was the only paper in Kentucky which investigated the work of the board at its first session in this State, and, while results were not wholly satisfactory, enough was seen to convince a fair-minded person that there is good in the law if properly administered."

BREAKING OF Mr. Miller's appointment as Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the Glasgow Times sensibly says. "Barring Mr. Thompson being a Kentuckian, this is as it should be. Mr. Thompson is known as the attorney of the whisky interests. His friendship for it is undisguised and unqualified, and was the principal lever used in prizing him for the Commissioner's office. No man should be at the head of a department who is the tool of its office. Mr. Miller probably doesn't know a still-house from a stable, but he is quite as likely as Mr. Thompson to give strict justice to the whisky ring—and that is what the people demand. Tax payers are tired of indulgences to this monopoly."

REFERRING to our article stating that Lincoln county had had but seven county clerks in 105 years, the Harrodsburg Democrat gives the facts about its own county and adds: "It will thus be seen that the office of county clerk of Mercer county has been held by the Allen family for 100 years being filled by three individuals with the exception of four years; also the office of circuit clerk has been held by three individuals of the same family for the same length of time, with the exception of one term of 24 years." We did not expect to beat Mercer's record. Her reputation for office-seeking and office-holding is too well established for that.

KENTUCKY democrats do not seem to be tearing their shirts and making war on the Administration because of its failure to make Thompson the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue as much as was predicted. The anxiety, says the Covington Commonwealth, seems to have been confined to a few Congressmen and the people more likely to approve than to condemn the failure to appoint. The Owen News can't see that Thompson has done anything for which he should be honored by the administration above all other Kentuckians and the Clinton Democrat protests against his appointment to any official position.

THE Frankfort Yeoman, which was among the number of papers which tried to bully Mr. Cleveland into appointing Thompson Commissioner, by saying that unless he did his action would be against tariff reform and in favor of protection, now wiggles out of it by saying the appointment had no such significance and lays the whole matter on Mr. Hendricks. Well we suppose that Thomas can stand it even if he has a sore toe.

A COLORED mobbing one of their own race at Artesia, Miss., for the murder of his wife, the other night, but before doing so one of the brethren of the party required everybody to kneel down while he offered up a fervent petition for the "po misfortunate brudder, who is about to vacate the yerrib." We recommend this plan to white mobs, for if such things must be done, it is best to do them in decency and in order.

COL. LAMONT, President Cleveland's Private Secretary, says. "If you will examine Gov. Cleveland's record at Albany, you will find that he was in the habit of selecting non-applicants for office." This being the case we stand much more chance of being made Collector for this district than our friend Daws Hughes, of the Lincoln News, and we will take fifteen cents for our chance. Who bids?

THE New York Sun, which fought Cleveland with more bitterness even than a republican paper, has, since that gentleman became the rising star, entered heartily into its support. The frequent changes of this omniscient suggests that The Moon would be better than its present misnomer and Mr. Dana should change its name to that at

New converts of the whipping post bill are being heard from all over the State and the issue is sure to be made before the next Legislature. The Louisville Democrat sensibly says: "It is certain that economy would be promoted by a law that should judiciously provide whipping either for all crimes, or for all crimes of a certain grade or class. It would greatly lessen the cost of criminal prosecutions and lessen the number of acts of crime. It would result in economy in many a home, too. Many an idle fellow would go to work; many a brutish husband would sober up and become industrious if the whipping post stood right in the face of the wife bender."

SUCH items as the following must harrow up the soul of Murat Halstead, who has been raving for months because he alleges the government has been turned over to the rebels of the Confederate States: R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, at Richmond, Va., adopted a preamble and resolution tendering Gen. Grant heartfelt sympathies in his severe affliction, and a hope may, by the aid of Divine Providence, soon be permitted to regain his health and to pass his remaining years in peace and happiness.

WE had almost arrived at the conclusion that we had found one thing to refute the old truism that everything earthly must come to an end, until to our infinite delight we saw tacked to "Wyliard's Weird," a story that has been running in the Louisville Times for many weary weeks and months, "to be concluded in our next." And now if the Owensboro Messenger will kindly let up on "Lonz Powers," our happiness will be supreme. These stories are no doubt very good, but there can be even too much of a good thing.

CAPT. PUNCH says he did not go to Ashland to trump up clues to save Neal, but to learn the truth. He has learned it and returned to Mt. Sterling fully convinced that he is guilty of the heinous offenses with which he is charged. Wonder if the silly people of that town will now agree to let him hang.

EX-GOV. JAMES H. BERRY was elected to the U. S. Senate from Arkansas to succeed Secretary Garland, on the fifth ballot. He was a Confederate soldier and unlike Senator Hampton, got his leg shot off during the war. He didn't wait till afterwards to get it mashed off by a mule.

BROTHER METCALF was so overjoyed at the appointment of Judge Durham that he brought out his cock in the last issue of his paper and made it crow loud and lustily for the man who deserves all the good things he gets in this world.

THE Prohibitionists met in Louisville and after adopting a string of resolutions nominated Judge F. T. Fox for State Treasurer. They evidently want to get at the duca, but Dick Tate will show them a thing or two about that.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—Gen. Grant's daughter, Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, arrived Saturday on the steamer Baltic from Liverpool.

—Ex-Congressman John C. Atkins, of Tennessee, has been selected for the important post of Indian Commissioner.

—Ex-Senator McDonald has assured the President that he desired nothing in the way of office or political preferment.

—The Farmers National Bank at Richmond has had its charter extended to 1905, its twenty year limit having just expired.

—The Senate will adjourn to-day or tomorrow, as the president has notified the body that he will have no further business for it.

—Ex-Gov. Porter, of Tennessee, has been appointed assistant Secretary of State and W. A. J. Sparks, of Illinois, Commissioner of the Land Office.

—The President will probably send in the name of Hon. Phil. B. Thompson Monday or Tuesday for Solicitor of the Treasury. —[Louisville Commercial.]

—Miss Evenetta Magoffin, of Harrodsburg, Ky., a niece of Gov. Perish Magoffin, deceased, has been appointed to a position in the public printing office.

—At Mt. Washington, N. H. Friday night a terrific storm raged. A west wind prevailed, and had a velocity of 100 to 140 miles an hour. Mercury 48° below zero.

—The Ohio Legislature adopted a joint resolution for the submission of the constitutional amendment to change the time of the State election from October to November.

—It is settled that Hubert O. Thompson will be selected as Collector of the Port of New York, and that Mr. Pearson will remain in control of the postoffice. Senator Pendleton will have a foreign mission, most probably Berlin.

—The postoffice at Knox, Pa., is vacant and there is a place for a good democrat. The postmaster was found to be short in his accounts, whereupon he blew out his official brains. This is a hint to all other rascals to turn themselves out.

—Death has again taken a hand in the Senatorial game which the Illinois Legislature has been playing with so much interest and obstinacy. The death of a democrat has cancelled the death of a republican, and a tie has been restored.

—A democrat, whose office has been delayed somewhere on the road, wants to know if sending two or three old spavined horses away from the White House stables is President Cleveland's idea of cleaning out the Augean stables. —[Louisville Times.]

—Young Cluverius, an attorney, of King and Queen county, Va., is in jail at Richmond for the mysterious murder of Fannie Lillian Madison, whose body was found in the Richmond reservoir. He is well related, a ladies' favorite, and says he can prove an alibi.

—The Grand Lodge, K. of H., of Kentucky, will meet in Louisville April 14.

—The Langham House burned at Chicago, causing three deaths and a loss of $400,000.

—The Continental Sugar Refinery at Boston with 10,000 barrels of sugar, burned Saturday.

—A snow-storm set in at Fortress Monroe, Va., Sunday morning and lasted all day. It was the heaviest in ten days.

—Mr. Hay, First Assistant Postmaster General, is suffering from pulmonary trouble, and it is doubtful that he will recover.

—United States Marshal A. J. Auxier has forwarded his resignation to President Cleveland, preferring a walk out to being kicked out.

—A portion of the Capitol at Trenton, N. J., was burned and with it many valuable records and relics, estimated at $100,000 in value.

—Out of the 19 contestants in the recent 6 day match on roller skates in New York, one has died and six others are lying at the point of death.

—Sunday was a bloody day in Louisville. Two fatal affrays occurred, another man was cut in the head, another shot and a policeman was arrested for highway robbery.

—Barbourville is to have a hanging next Friday, unless Lieut. Gov. Hindman gets a chance to respite. John Sexton is the man and he will likely make a clean confession.

—A Washington telegram gives the Mexican Mission to Ex-Gov. Hubbard, of Texas, and the office of Commissioner of Agriculture to ex-Senator Williams, of Kentucky.

—Pulaski is the county which drew $1,191.25 as its semi-annual allowance for the support of thirty-four idiots. It is one of the foremost republican counties in this State. —[Yeoman.]

—Postmaster General Vilas has been invited by the Chancellor and students, through ex-Gov. McCreary, to deliver the annual address before the Central University, in Kentucky, next June.

—There are four republican colored men holding first-class offices—Bruce, Register of the Treasury; Douglas, Recorder of deeds, Washington; Langston, Minister to Haiti, and Smith, minister to Liberia.

—W. W. Dafee has entered suit at Birmingham, Ala., against the Western Union Telegraph Company for $10,000 damages for delaying four days a telegram from Atlanta announcing the death of his mother.

—United States Marshal Hughes, of the Richmond (Va.) district, has been missing from his home for over a week. An investigation of the books of his office shows an apparent shortage of from $4,000 to $5,000.

—John Bell, of Fleming county, a drummer for a New York cigar store, was run over by an engine on the Kentucky Central railroad, near Wright's, in Bourbon county. He had been on a big spree and had wandered off.

—Ex-Commissioner of Internal Revenue Evans, on turning over his office, sent the Secretary of the Treasury a letter showing that he had reduced the expenses of the office $400,000 a year and that he left it with accounts perfectly balanced and $57,000,000 in round numbers on hand.

—Ex-Senator Jos. E. McDonald was Friday formally tendered the mission to Russia. The tender was made by Secretary of State Bayard, with the full sanction of the President. Mr. McDonald declined the high honor with thanks. At present he has business engagements in this country which require his personal attention.

—The determination of the new Administration to conduct all the departments of the Government as business institutions, instead of asylums for people who can not take care of themselves in politics or business, is shocking the organs of the old order of things. They are swearing and kicking at a great rate, but the new boom continues the good work. —[Louisville Times.]

—The Court of Appeals declares that peddlers of wares and merchandise, regardless of citizenship, must take out a State license. The amount of the license is $100 for the State-at-large or 65 cents for each 100 voters when only one or more counties are asked for. Peddlers of tin ware, stoneware, tar, turpentine, lampblack agricultural implements, sewing machines and portable mills are exempt.

—At the annual meeting of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company held at Richmond, Va., the following directors were elected. C. P. Huntington, C. A. Low, A. S. Hatch, Elias S. Higgins, John Castree, Isaac E. Gates, G. E. Orr, Ezra Wheeler, E. T. Tournier, all of New York; Williams C. Wickham and John Echols, of Virginia. The President's report shows that the gross earnings for the past year were $3,538,905; operating expenses, $2,462,720; earnings over expenses, $1,075,884, a shrinkage from last year of over $230,000.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Jno. R. Rector and Susie G. Eirls obtained license to marry Saturday and J. W. Edwards and Lizzie O. Fletcher.

—Rev. Mr. Reid, a missionary to China for five years will lecture here on the 30th inst. on his experiences in the Flowery Kingdom.

—Mrs. James Kinnard gave a progressive euchre party Thursday which was attended by a number of her friends all of whom enjoyed themselves very much.

—Miss Lullie Brown is very ill with pneumonia at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Brown, on the Lancaster and Stanford road. Miss Lullie is a bright, lovable girl and her many friends hope for her early recovery.

—Mr. A. G. Karsener, of Fayette, who has been here for about a week, left for home Sunday. While here he made elegant improvements to his real estate on the S. W. corner of Main and 4th streets. Look and see if you don't believe it.

—Hon. M. J. Durham left to-day (Monday) to enter upon his duties as First Comptroller of the U. S. Treasury. He left with the congratulations and best wishes of troops of life long friends who feel that the right man has been selected for the place.

—The senior class of Centre College has passed its final examination in Butler's Analogy and Evidences of Christianity and has been turned over to Prof. S. R. Cheek to complete the course in English and English Literature. Vice-President McKee says the average standing of this class is higher than any he has known since his connection with the College.

—Lox Briscoe and another gentleman of color hired a blind yellow horse from Mr. Jno. Stodghill Thursday night and went to a "festibal" at Lancaster. When they got ready to return their horse by mistake was hitched to a buggy another party had hired from Wakefield & Hudson, also of this place. On the way back Briscoe and his friend became drowsy when Mr. Stodghill's blind, yellow horse, still hitched to Wakefield & Hudson's buggy, walked over a cliff and broke his neck. The necks of neither Briscoe nor his friend were broken but the buggy was smashed to smithereens. So it will be seen that it is better to be a "collud pussen" than to be either a blind, yellow horse or a buggy.

—Mr. Mitchell King, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is now improving. Col. Wm. Duke, who has been quite ill for several weeks, is again able to be on the street. Dr. D. C. Tucker, of Marion county, was in town Sunday. Mr. J. R. Carrigan was in Lexington Friday and Saturday. Mrs. E. W. Lee is in Louisville visiting her sister, Mrs. Ben. Atchison. Messrs. Andrew Whitley and W. D. Moore are in Mason county, Texas and are preparing for an overland trip to Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Thos. E. Tutt, of St. Louis, who have been here visiting Mrs. A. Rhodes, Mrs. Tutt's mother, left for home Sunday evening. They came and went in a special car belonging to the W. St. L. & P. railroad. Mr. W. M. Graham, of Sumpter, S. C., was here all last week buying horses for ship ment home. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Fox, of Roanoke, Va., who have been visiting their son, Mr. E. H. Fox, left for home Thursday. Mr. J. J. Argo, of Colorado, is here visiting his brother, Wm. M. Argo, Superintendent of the D. & D. Institute. Nathan Woodcock passed through town Saturday and was not at all dead.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.

—The circus is coming to town. Sells Bros. will show here Tuesday April 28th.

—M. D. Hughes is the champion rifle shot. He won the gun that was offered as a prize for the best score made.

—R. H. Tomlinson is announced as a democratic candidate to represent Garrard county in the lower house of the next legislature.

—It will not be any news to Lancaster people nor of any interest to any one else, but it is a deplorable fact nevertheless that there is a butter famine in our market just at this time.

—Bills have been posted here announcing the coming Tuesday evening of Kersey's Combination, a dramatic troupe from Crab Orchard. They will present "Lady Andley's Secret" with a minstrel afterpiece.

—Died, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Joo. W. Dunn, Friday evening, Mrs. Susan Salter in the 69th year of her age. She was the widow of the late John Salter and a worthy, christian lady. After a funeral sermon at the Christian church by the Rev. Jesse Walden her remains were interred in our cemetery Sunday morning.

—Miss Effie Potts, of Richmond, is visiting Mrs. H. C. Potts. Mr. J. P. Sandifer has returned from Louisville. Rev. W. I. Fowle has gone to Lexington for a brief visit. Mr. E. C. Walton was doing the correct thing for the INTERIOR JOURNAL here Monday. Hon. M. J. Durham has many friends in this county who were highly gratified to see him appointed First Comptroller of the Treasury.

—John Smith, a colored man employed by Mr. Geo. R. Beasley to guard his coal yard, fired two shots at Henry Ellmore, also colored, Wednesday night while the latter was trying to steal a sack of coal from the yard. Ellmore returned the fire, without effect however, but finally dropped his pistol and sack of coal and took to his heels. A warrant was issued for his arrest but the marshal failed to find him. Petty thieving is becoming quite common here and needs suppressing in some manner. Doubtless a few well laid on lashes at the whipping-post would be the proper caper for such offenders as the above.

—At ten o'clock this (Tuesday) morning at the residence of Mr. Stephen Marrs, the bride's father, Mr. Robert Kinnaird will be married to Miss Ada B. Marrs by the Rev. W. O. Goodloe of the Presbyterian church. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple will leave for a trip to Cincinnati and other points. The bride is a daughter of a prominent merchant here and has a legion of friends who wish her great happiness. Mr. Kinnaird, or the "Major" as he is better known, is the Teller in the National Bank of Lancaster and a gentleman of the highest standing both in social and business circles.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming the paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Powers Block, Rochester, N. Y.

—Mr. D. K. Lass has gone East for his spring goods.

—Mrs. J. A. Carpenter is visiting relatives near Parkville.

—Miss Lizzie Cozatt, of Parkville, is visiting Mrs. M. G. Nevius.

—Miss Hattie Frisbie, of Kirksville, was here Saturday returning from a visit to Louisville.

—Mrs. S. S. McRoberts and Mr. W. B. McRoberts have gone to visit Mrs. Judge Muir at Louisville, who is said to be quite ill.

—Col. E. Zimmerman, President of the C. & N. Railroad, and Capt. J. C. Roder, a prominent contractor, of Gallatin, Tenn., are at the Myers House.

—Messrs. A. A. Warren, Peter Hamilton and J. A. Carpenter went up to London Saturday to assist in reorganizing the Old Fellows Lodge there. There were several initiations.

LOCAL MATTERS.

SPRING CALICOES at Robt. S. Lytle's.

TO ARRIVE to-day, 1 car of choice white seed oats. Bright & Curran.

GARDEN SEED, Onion Sets and Seed Potatoes at Warren & Metcalf's.

I WILL hang paper for 10 cents a bolt on wall and 15c on ceiling. T. J. Bealey.

A FOURTEEN-POUND boy put in an appearance at J. W. Lasley's Sunday night.

A good many West End people were at the railroad meeting and showed much interest.

J. W. McALISTER sold 27½ acres of land near the Junction to W. H. Dudderar at $100 per acre.

SEED POTATOES.—N. Y. Early Rose, Burbank, Peerless and "Beauty of Hebron" at Bright & Curran's.

A NEW stock of Hamburg and Cotton Edging, white goods and lace curtains just opened at Robt. S. Lytle's.

The firm of Williams & Ramsey has been dissolved, Mr. Ramsey will continue the butcher business at the old stand.

The report published in the Louisville Times that N. H. Woodcock, the popular drummer, had dropped dead was of course untrue. Mr. Woodcock was here that day and never looked as little like a dead man.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE WEST END.—I have fitted up an undertaker's establishment at Hustonville and with a nice hearse and a full line of handsome caskets am prepared to serve the public. B. K. Wear.

A 63 POUND bass, the largest ever seen in Stanford, was sent to Mr. A. S. Myers by Mr. Joe F. Sutton, keeper of a hotel at Williamsburg. Uncle Sid says "Joe is a mighty clever man and a capital one to cop with when you go a-fishing."

By showing a little liberality we can secure the Chesapeake & Nashville railroad. Capt. Spradlin, we know, favors us, other things being equal and Col. Zimmerman would rather see it come this way. We must not let so great an opportunity pass.

VERY little of general interest has been done in the Circuit Court since our last issue. A number of civil cases have been disposed of, but only one or two unimportant Commonwealth's cases have been tried. The case of Dolph Bailey for the murder of Howard Dudley set for yesterday, was continued to the 25th day of the term and that against Bash and others for horse-stealing till to-day.

THE CHESAPEAKE & NASHVILLE.—Capt. W. H. Spradlin and his assistant engineers, Messrs. Frank Mathews, R. L. Williams, W. B. Crenshaw, F. L. Day, J. W. Baker, A. E. Roscoe and John M. Rogan, arrived here Saturday night, having walked through from Nashville, locating a line to connect that city with the Chesapeake & Ohio system. They started Oct. 1, and have made a thorough survey of the country, finding several practical lines. Capt. Spradlin tells us that all the right of way, besides the cross-ties and other material in many instances have been secured from Nashville to the Lincoln line, which is a big thing in itself. From Hustonville here he finds a line of very easy grades which can be built very cheaply, but it is a mile or more longer than he would like and he will make an attempt this week to reduce it. The corps is composed of as nice a set of gentlemen as can be found anywhere and our citizens should, and doubtless will, extend them every courtesy in their power.

PURE Home-made maple syrup at Bright & Curran's.

GARDEN seeds in bulk or papers at Bright & Curran's.

SIXTY-THREE new cash subscribers were added to the INTERIOR JOURNAL's list last week and notwithstanding the hard times the paper is booming right along.

The usual equinoctial storm came this year in the shape of the heaviest snow of the season, Saturday night, and by the next morning the mercury was uncomfortably close to zero. Yesterday was a bright day, however, and it is hoped that the sun having gotten on our side of the equator, will hereafter assert his supremacy over the atmosphere.

MORE GHOSTS.—While two young men of this place were driving out to Mr. Lewis Dudderar's to an entertainment the other night, they discovered in the road a strange looking white object between the size of a sheep and a calf, which stood upon its hind feet and cut all sorts of capers. The young men, while not feeling the least bit comfortable in witnessing its performance, were compelled to look on longer than they otherwise would have done had not the ghost, or whatever it was, been immediately in front of them and the road too narrow to turn their buggy around. After a few moments the strange object disappeared in the darkness.

RAILROAD MEETING.—A large and earnest crowd gathered at the Court House yesterday afternoon, to meet Col. E. Zimmerman, the president of the Chesapeake & Nashville R. R., for a mutual exchange of views. Mr. D. W. Vandever was called to the chair and W. P. Walton was on motion made Secretary. Col. Zimmerman addressed the meeting by request. He stated that the various surveys had now been made and that in 30 days the final location would be settled. Nashville and the counties South of us have been as liberal as the company could ask, in fact they have met every proposition promptly, taking bonds, giving right of way, cross-ties, &c. Danville and the people along the Cumberland and Ohio track are working hard to secure the road and have made liberal propositions. Lincoln has made no effort and while he was not here to submit any proposition, he hoped the people would appreciate the importance of securing the road and be as liberal as possible. Col. W. G. Welch made a very fine presentation of advantages of securing the road and showed that it would prove a paying investment instead of a tax on the people. He therefore moved that the sense of the meeting be taken as to whether the county should buy for the road the right-of-way through it and the necessary depot grounds, providing the road is built to Richmond Junction. W. H. Miller advocated the proposition in an earnest speech followed by Dr. Hawkins Brown, John O. Neal and others and on the question being put it was carried unanimously. It was then moved that a committee be appointed to draft the petition to the county court and secure the number of signatures required by the act of Legislature. This was carried and the Chair appointed for the Stanford precinct, H. S. Withers, W. G. Welch and W. H. Miller; Turnersville, J. O. Neal; Hustonville, Dr. H. Brown; Walnut Flat, J. S. Owsley; Crab Orchard, W. O. Hansford; Highland, Jas. D. Bastin; Wayneburg, L. G. Gooch. Then on a motion of Mr. Miller a committee was appointed to ascertain the probable cost of the right-of-way for either of the lines via Hustonville from the Casey line and report to a public meeting to be held at the Court House. The names of those appointed are H. S. Withers, F. Reid, W. H. Miller, John O. Neal, A. D. Root, Dr. S. G. Hocker, W. R. Williams, Dr. H. Brown and Dr. Edward Aloren. The meeting then adjourned. Our people are fully alive to the importance of securing the road and we have no doubt that when the proposition is brought to a vote it will be carried by a large majority.

MARRIAGES.

—H. P. Watts, a youth of 20, and Sarah C., a little miss of 16, were married at Mrs. Mary Walle, Saturday.

—Miss Lillie Muir, daughter of Judge Muir, of Louisville, and well known here, is to marry Mr. Alie Semple next month.

DEATHS.

—Died at his home in this county at an early hour Sunday morning, Col. Thomas P. Grimes, in the 75th year of his age. Col. Grimes had been in feeble health for a number of years, but was not confined to his bed. Saturday he walked around as usual and that night sat up till 10 o'clock, so interested was he in the reading of the newspapers by his son Will. After retiring he slept soundly till about day Sunday, when he complained of being cold and asked his wife to pull the cover closer around him. She did so and he still said he was chilly and that a sharp pain was in his breast. Mrs. Grimes then called for her son, who came and noticing the wheezing sound with his breathing, lifted his father into a sitting position, when he gasped a few times and fell over dead. Col. Grimes was a Georgian by birth and a high toned, honorable gentleman, a very Chesterfield in manners and a most entertaining conversationalist. He married a sister of Hon. G. A. Lackey and she with five children, Sterling T. Grimes, of Cuero, Texas; Joe S. Grimes, of Elizabethtown and W. P. Grimes and Misses Pauline and Kate Grimes, of this county, survive him. Three of the children were absent at the time of his death, Miss Kate, being in Kansas City on a visit, but Mr. Joe Grimes arrived Sunday night. The remains were followed to Buffalo Springs Cemetery by a long procession of friends and at 3 P. M. yesterday were consigned to the tomb after a short service by Rev. A. S. Moffett.

RELIGIOUS.

—The Methodist revival at Catlettsburg closed with 100 additions to the army of the Lord.

—Rev. B. F. Bristow's meeting at Covington has closed with 72 accessions to the Methodist Church, South.

—We are requested to announce that Dr. J. W. Cox will preach at the Christian church next Sunday at 11 o'clock.

—Rev. B. H. Cox will preach at Mt. Xenia Saturday and Sunday nights next and at McCormack's Sunday at 11 A. M.

—Two hundred and forty-nine persons have joined the church at Sardis and Murphysville, Mason county, Ky., the past two weeks.

—Rev. H. Allen Tupper baptized twenty persons at the Broadway Baptist church Sunday, and received several candidates for baptism.

—President Cleveland has rented a pew in the first Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Dr. Sunderland, formerly Chaplain of the United States Senate, is pastor.

—Rev. J. M. Bruce will preach at Ebanks Station next Thursday night and continue services till Sunday. The Rev. J. L. Smith will fill his pulpit here next Sunday.

—Rev. A. Heath baptized 52 persons at Fifth-avenue Baptist church last Thursday, making 125 baptisms during his great gospel meeting. The membership of this church is over 2,000.—[Courier-Journal.]

—The Year Book for 1885 gives the following Baptist statistics: Associations, 1,178; ordained ministers, 16,678; churches, 28,599; additions by baptism, 135,740; by letter, 60,206; by experience, 9,336; by restoration, 18,163; diminutions (by letter, exclusion, excommunication and death), 130,385; total of members, 2,567,753; income, 93,060.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—Cedar posts for sale. Jos. Ballou.

—Twenty-five barrels of corn for sale for cash. W. W. Hays.

—Wheat closed at Chicago Saturday at 79 for May delivery.

—S. W. Givens & Son bought of Strother Yeager 5 long yearling cattle at $35.

—Jason Walker has sold 11 mules at $120@125 per head.—[Richmond Register.]

—Armour & Co., Chicago cattle men, have an English order for 70,000 cattle for use in Egypt.

—Ware & Robinson sold to Sydney Moffett 30 head of 2 and 3-year-old cattle at $30 and bought of David Allen 37 head at $28 50.

—Jas. Logan sold his tobacco crop at home at an average of 8½ cents per pound. The crop made 1,900 pounds to the acre.—[Nicholasville Journal-Courier.]

—Statistical calculations show the wheat crop of Virginia to be about 30 per cent. less than that of last year. This shortage is due to the extreme cold weather.

—The Harrodsburg Democrat reports the sale of a lot of yearling mules at $69.60 and some 2-year olds at $70. H. C. Williams & Co., bought 2,500 bushels of wheat of a Cincinnati firm to be delivered in Harrodsburg at 92 cents.

—LANCASTER COURT.—About 400 cattle on market; most of them sold at prices ranging from 4 to 5 cts. No mules offered. A few plug horses brought from $40 to $60. Good crowd in attendance. P. P. Nunneley sold to Wade Walker, of Garrard, 23 head scrub heifers at $19.

—The Chicago Breeders' Gazette says that in the stock yards of that city all descriptions of live stock are cheaper than one year ago. The difference in cattle amounts to 50 to 75c, in hogs to $2@2.50 and in sheep $1.50 to $1.75 per 100 pounds. Hogs are better and cattle and sheep are poorer to the season than is usual.

HORSEMEN AND HORSES.

By a Fancier.

—Hughes & Cathcart have secured the pooling privilege at Latonia for '85 at a cost of $34,800.

—Mr. Corrigan's horses appear to not bedding well as he has declared several out of valuable stakes.

—Cautious backers of Favor for the Kentucky Derby will entertain a Doubt in placing their spare change.

—St. Martin is of royal blood. To his family belong the four kings, King Lear, King John, King Tom and King Henry—a strong hand to hold.

—Mr. A. Smith McCann, of Lexington, has sold to a Boston, Mass., party the 2-year-old Besie Wilks, by Red Wilkes, dam by Almont, for $900.

—Every thoroughbred mare with a Lexington-Glencoe cross is in demand and meets a ready sale at good figures as does any staple at its common worth.

—Sumner county, Tenn., claims the honor of producing Luke Blackburn, Lord Murphy and Arizona, the first and last named made it an honor worth claiming.

—Mr. Cottrell's fine colt, Jim Guest, a prominent candidate for Derby honors has crippled himself by hanging his foot under his stable sill and it is feared sustained serious injury.

—Kentucky supports the two safest, best appointed and best managed race courses in the United States, one at Louisville, the other at Covington. E. G. Bruce is Secretary of the former and E. D. Lawrence the latter.

—Green Morris bought of F. B. Harper 3 colts for $18,000 to win the Derby of '85 with one of them, and afterwards deemed it best to make another purchase and in order to secure the prize will have to buy still another, as he has not yet bought the winner.

—Maj. B. G. Thomas' catalogue of his annual sale of yearlings is the handsomest of his kind. Maj. T. was a fine soldier, an excellent sheriff and is a most successful breeder. Hazen, Himyar, Hatel and a host of other good ones were bred and raised by him.

—The New Orleans winter meeting, just closed, was a decided failure, owing to the lack of patronage, caused by the corruption of a small flock of gamblers and some of the jockeys. E. D. Lawrence and E. J. Gardner succeeded finally in ruling them off for life, but too late to make the meeting a success.

—The Texas stables are reported strong. Texas is developing prominence as a home of the thoroughbred, and we are glad 'tis so. Her horsemen are, like all true lovers of the horse everywhere, deservedly popular. They were her cattlemen who demanded such a slice of the West of Congress for a cow-path that made one reflect that sure enough, the United States was annexed to Texas, instead of Texas to the United States.

HALLS GAP, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Hurrah for Bright and the whipping-post.

—Everybody will give spring a hearty welcome as it has been the hardest winter that people have experienced here for some length of time.

—Elders Sherron and Long have just closed a protracted meeting at Mt. Moriah, which resulted in three additions to the church at that place.

—Three of our energetic young men, who have been patronizing the La. Lottery, had their patience rewarded a few days ago by the receipt of a big prize at the last drawing.

—The alternate freezing and thawing during the past winter has almost completely ruined the wheat crop in this part of the county. Many of the farmers are plowing up their wheat lands and will put in corn and oats. Some crops, however, have not been injured very badly, but as a rule they are few and far between.

—Mr. Alfred Surber's numerous friends are glad to see him and his family back here again. He has moved into the house near the church, and is engaged at present in building a grist mill opposite Mr. J. M. Martin's. Mrs. Wilson, of Danville, and Mrs. Steinbergen, of Junction City, were here last week visiting their father, Mr. T. D. Hill. Miss Lizzie Kirk, is visiting friends at Rowland.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Land is increasing in value very rapidly in this section, especially where there is a possibility of a negotiation for "right of way."

—Our town rejoices in the possession of a baker and a butcher. Our bread and meat, therefore are assured if we never get a railroad.

—The sun has been so thoroughly demoralized since the recent eclipse that it has not had life enough to cut a single shine for several days.

—The Cooking Club folded its mantle and died with dignity last Friday night. The closing services were rendered bright and happy under the auspices of Misses Ida and Lizzie Twidwell. It was, as I understand, an exceedingly pleasant association and afforded abundant recreation to members and guests. Its meetings will be missed by our young people until they find a substitute.

—I understand the ladies of the Presbyterian church have formed an organization known as the Ministerial Aid Society. I don't know precisely how it will operate, but as their present minister is young and unmarried, I predict for the society a numerous membership. Do your prettiest ladies; aid and comfort to an enemy is treason, but for the sake of a preacher is highly commendable.

—The man who predicted a mild winter has not been seen for several days. He is understood to be reconstructing his tables and will supply in the form of history the omissions and errors of his chapter of prophecy. One thing is certain, when he does come out he will present a triumphant vindication. It can't be expected that amid the agonies of a dying dynasty and the birth-throes of a new administration in our own country, the disaffection in Egypt; the snarlings of the Russian bear against the British lion and the growing imbroglie in Central America, the weather can pursue the even tenor of its way according to precedent and be provided.

IRVING'S BARBER

TELLS WHAT HE PROFFESSES TO KNOW ABOUT THE NOTED ACTOR.

The Curious Scene in "Richelieu" in Imitation of Booth—A Very Funny Expression—Painting the Town Red—Handwriting.

[Fred D. Murray in Commercial Gazette.] As I sat a day or two since in a chair in the barber shop of the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago, the particular barber who was paying attention to my case gave me an entertainment that was exceedingly enjoyable. He is the man who does Henry Irving's shaving, and is duly proud of the fact. He has but one eye and a limber tongue, but he can turn the torture of a shave into a pleasure, so sharp are his razors, so gentle his touch. Said he: "I've just come down from shaving Irving, and I worked him for two razors. One of 'em has a moustache, and I must work him for that. He has more'n fifty of 'em. I tell you, he is a daisy," said the cyclopean tonsorial artist, as he rounded up the port side of my chin, and began dragging under the lee of my moustache, while he gently elevated the point of my nasal protuberance with the thumb and forefinger of his left hand.

Yes, I tell you he is a daisy, and I am just as familiar with him as though I'd known him forty years. He just talks with me and somehow he seems to try to keep me talking.

I imitated Irving and tried to do the same thing, and under my questioning, my single-eyed capillary reaper informed me that Mr. Irving will drink no American liquors and he is a great gormandizer of fruit. He keeps a big basket on his table of pears and apples, oranges, bananas, prunes, etc., and is half the time eating some of them. "He drinks brandy," says the barber, "and while I was shaving him one day, a case of brandy and a dozen boxes of cigars were brought in, which had just come from England. There ain't a bit of starch in him and we talk together just like old cronies. Why, I'll tell you what he did. He gave me an imitation of Booth one day right in the middle of a shave. What d'ye think of that? There wasn't nobody there but me and the dog and Irving. I asked him how he liked Booth, and he said Booth was a great actor, one of the greatest in the world. I'll give you an imitation of him." And he got right up with the towels on and half his face in shadow, and the other half shaved, and he gave that piece which he says that he puts a ring around the girl, and stamps any of the whole caboodle of clumps to step inside of it.

"Was it the curious scene in 'Richelieu' he gave you?" I asked.

"Well, I don't know about that. I never go much to the theatre."

"Was it something like this," said I: "Round her form I draw the awful circle of our holy church, or something of that sort?"

"Yes, yes," was the eager reply; "that's the stuff he gave me; that's the stuff straight, just to me and the dog. I tell you, he did it to the queen's taste, too, and when he sat down he said: 'No man can do that' but Booth. When I attempt it I feel very humble, and I have concluded that the best thing I can do is just to imitate Booth when I come to that scene."

"I asked him if he liked Barrett, and he said: 'Oh, yes, Barrett is a fine actor—not Booth, of course. He is not an actor of the first rank, nor even of the second, but he is a fine gentleman and a warm friend.'"

"Me and Irving had a talk the other day," the barber continued. "There was a lot of English cattle camps in this house, and I told Irving about 'em that they was English cattle men, and were coming to see him at night."

"'Cattle men,' said he, 'what is a cattle man? That is a funny expression, a very funny expression.'"

"I told him they were Englishmen herding cattle in Texas, and he said: 'Oh, that's what you mean by a cattle man. I didn't know it was something half man and half cow, you know,' and Mr. Irving laughed so he nearly fell out of the chair. Then he said the Englishmen of that class are apt to drink and get very rude."

"Yes," says I, "they are red-hot roosters, and after the play is over they'll just more'n paint the town red."

"What will they do?" says Mr. Irving, rolling up his big eyes. "Paint the town red? Why should they do that? Red is a badly color. I don't understand about painting the town red."

"Well, then I explained about it, and he kept talking about it, and said, 'What an extraordinary expression; what a funny, very funny thing you Americans say—Paint the town red! Well, that is good; a splendid expression. The more I think of it the better it seems.' Then he said the Americans were a wonderfully something or other people, I don't remember the word. It was something like philosophical."

"Wasn't it metaphorical?" I suggested.

"Yes, I guess that was the word. He told me that he would give the world if he had the physique of Booth. That's the way he pronounced it, but I suppose he meant physique, didn't he? These Englishmen have funny ways of pronouncing things."

"Irving smokes eight cigars a day and gives me a couple every day. He calls a barber a shaver. I must play him for four seats to-morrow night. I pipe the old man off when he is in his best humor, when I tickle him for passes. He gives me an order for seats in his own writing, and the d— couldn't read it. It looks like an ink blot struck by lightning."

"Shave satisfactory? All right. Good day, sir. Be-rush. Next gentleman."

Worth Remembering.

[Exchange.] A noiseless way of feeding a coal-fire is to put a shovelful of coals in a paper bag. Prepare half a dozen bags at a time, use them as they are needed, and thus the noise and dust generally accompanying the usual mode of replenishing the fire will be avoided.

A Father Who is Funny when They Have Company.

[Bill Nye.]

"Children and fools tell the truth," I have heard, and certainly children have a faculty of working the truth in at the wrong time. Truth is a good thing—in its place. But the great harm comes from using it at an inopportune time. I am the only and original father of one of the class of children who are loquacious and truthful in a way that makes the parent heart bleed sometimes. If this incident did not happen to make me its victim I would scorn to tell it, for people ought not to make themselves or their children too conspicuously smart in print.

Guests were invited to dinner, and while in my baronial hall the welkin rang and the cold baked bean was passed around amid joyous laughter, and witty remarks rang out on the warm air—while gorgeous flags and glittering cut glass and silver of a neighborly home resplendent beneath the mellow light of the chandelier and candleabra, the humble writer of these lines, as the host, would ever and anon make a brilliant remark, which would be received with wild and tumultuous applause.

A few weeks ago, on an occasion of this kind, a cousin of mine, a young lawyer connected with the Omaha road, a young man of good parts, and whose business it is to stand between the Omaha road and substantial justice, at so much a year and traveling expenses, was present.

As I sat a day or two since in a chair in the barber shop of the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago, the particular barber who was paying attention to my case gave me an entertainment that was exceedingly enjoyable. He is the man who does Henry Irving's shaving, and is duly proud of the fact. "Crackle! Glass."

[Glassware Reporter.] This variety of glass, which has become so fashionable on account of its effective and crackle! appearance, is produced by covering one side of a piece of plate glass with a thick stratum of a flux or readily fusible glass, mixed with coarse fragments of glass. In this condition it is placed in a muffle or an oven furnace, where it is strongly heated. As soon as the flux is melted, and the glass itself has become red hot, it is removed from the furnace, and rapidly cooled.

A flux (or fusible glass) under this treatment cracks and splits, leaving innumerable fine lines of fracture over its surface, having much the appearance of scales or irregular crystals, which cross and intersect each other in every direction, producing very striking and beautiful effects when the light falls upon its surface.

One of our country exchanges has an office stove which, it thinks, with a crank attachment and a little encouragement, would make a good ice cream freezer.

Philadelphia Call: It is not true that Dr. May Walker is about to be married. The man escaped.

The Stationery world.

[Exchange.]

In sealing a letter it is not fashionable to use the monogram.

The revival of sealing-wax has led to the invention of pretty little spirit lamps, which are quite an adjunct to a handsome desk or writing table.

In monograms, script is used, and there is an end to the puzzling interlacing of letters. This simple marking is in good taste and recommended by all first-class dealers. The stamp costs 75 cents, and is also used in sealing, red and olive wax being again used.

There are scores of fancy devices and designs in letter paper. Flocks of birds, domestic and wild, feathered creations of good and evil omen, scorpions, beetles, insects, reptiles and fish, herds of small cattle, cats, tigers, canines, ferrets and sly little squirrels, and, indeed, almost every animal in zoology in some shape or form seems to be thrown on the market in company with flowers, garden vegetables, cherubs, angels, and a host of other creatures that belong to man's land. Clover-leaves, forget-me-nots, heart's ease, bleeding-hearts, and sprigs of rosemary, myrtle, yew and weeping willow are allowed to ornament the tops of paper designed and intended for sentimental youths.

Fashions in False Hair.

[New York Sun.]

The fall and winter styles for ladies' hair dressing are very becoming. The hair is slightly waved and looped in graceful bows on the top of the head; the figure 8 being the favorite style for ordinary wear, a few light curls fringing the nape of the neck.

Ladies who think it becoming may add a long wave, curled about two inches at the end, pinned in the center of the back, falling gracefully over the shoulder so as to be seen from the front; another short, wavy curl, pinned over the long curl, so that the end stops at the nape of the neck. This is quite new, and looks well on a long neck.

The front hair is arranged in light curls or waves, in the style most becoming to the face. Front coiffures, made of waves and curls woven on invisible lace, dressed in different styles are becoming regular articles of wearing apparel, some ladies having a change every day in the week.

An Editor's Tribute.

Theron P. Keator, editor of the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Gazette, writes: "For the past five years have always used Dr. King's New Discovery, for coughs of the most severe character, as well as for those of a milder type. It never fails to effect a speedy cure. My friends to whom I have recommended it speak of it in the same high terms. Having been cured by it of every cough that I have had for five years, I consider it the only reliable and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, etc." Call at Penny & McAllister's Drug store and get a Free Trial Bottle. Very Remarkable Discovery.

Mrs. Geo. V. Willing, of Manchester, Mich. writes: "My wife has been almost helpless for five years, so helpless that she could not turn over in bed alone. She used two bottles of Electric Bitters and is now much improved. She is now able to do her own work." Electric Bitters will do all that is claimed for them. Hundreds of testimonials attest their great curative powers. Only fifty cents a bottle at Penny & McAllister's.

What You Want to Know.

Everybody wants an honest answer to this simple question:—What is the best medicine to regulate the bowels, cure constiveness and biliousness, help the digestion and give strength to the whole system? People ask us this every day. We answer, Parker's Tonic. It is pleasant to the taste. All the children like it. Mothers praise it. It will save a thousand times its cost in every family. —[Editor Western Argus.]

CURE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and affording a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piquette, Ohio. Sold by Roberts & Stage.

Stallions for 1885.

St. Martin is one of the most distinguished sons of Imp. Phragon, winning good races over good horses at all distances, and a few of his colts on the turf in 1884 were all seen at the front. His son, Turf, was one of the best 2-year olds of the year. St. Martin is the highest type of a thoroughbred horse, standing over 16 1/2 hands high, splendidly proportioned, kind as a lamb and combines the best blood of England and America. By Imp. Phragon, first dam Tokyo, by Imp. Yorkshire; second dam Miss Martin, by Garrison's Zingone, (son of Sir Archy); third dam Gabriella by Sir Archy; fourth dam Calypso, by Bolivar; fifth dam (dam of Contention) by Imp. Dave Devil; sixth dam Sykes' Wildcat; seventh dam Piccadilly, by Bolt & Macklin's Ferret; eighth dam (dodph) ninth dam by Imp. Hobnob; tenth dam by Imp. Jolly Ranger; eleventh dam by Imp. Valiant; twelfth dam by Trystall. Thus it is seen that his blood is enriched from the same fountain that is Lexington, the great race horse and greatest of sires, and (Glenoe, Yorkshire) and Phaeon renowned in the turf histories. I have put his services at the low figures to oblige my friends and neighbors and to justify breeders at a distance in sending him, and would take a few good mares on the sash. I will stand at the same place my combined horse.
